CP Holiday Train What a great way to kick off the week-end—the CP Holiday Train is scheduled to roll into town at noon on the north side of the tracks at 1001 Front Street.

Every year, the Holiday Train winds its way across the country, raising money and collecting non-perishable food items for local food banks. And that's all you need to check out the event-a donation to the cause. Conexus Credit Union is bringing the hot chocolate, and Borderland Co-op is donating hot dogs, plus the Moosomin Shriners will be on-hand to help with col-lecting the food donations. There will also be property donations callected for the be monetary donations collected for the Moosomin food share.

This year. Tyler Shaw and Shawnee Kish will be featured performers, revving up the crowd with holiday cheer. The train itself is decorated in thousands of Christmas lights. Since 1999, the Holiday Train has raised over $24.3 million and collected more than 5.3 million pounds of food for communi-ties in Canada and the United States.

Saturday, December 7

Santa Day This is your chance to talk with the jolly old elf himself. The CEO of the North Pole, Santa Claus, will be coming to MacLeod Elementary School. This is the 11th annual Santa Day, and photos with Santa at the school will take place from 9 am to noon, sponsored by the Moosomin Kinettes. Then it's time to hit the Moosomin Community Theatre as the Chamber is hosting a free matinee at 2 pm. Not only do kids get a free ticket to the show, but they can also claim a small popcorn at no charge as well!

December 1-12

Rolna Pranke with RE/MAX Blue Chip Realty will once again be hosting her Twinkle Tour. People can take a tour around Moosomin between December 1-12 and then yote on their favorite Christ-

Figure 1 and then vote on their favorite Christ-mas light display. Votes can be phoned or texted to 306-435-7343, emailed to rpranke@remax-yorkton.ca, or posted on Rolna's Facebook page at Rolna Pranke RE/MAX Blue Chip Poole. Realty.

The first prize winner will receive $200 in Moosomin Bucks, second place will receive $150 in Moosomin Bucks, and third place will receive $100 in Moosomin Bucks. Everyone who sends in their votes will also be entered for a chance to win two tickets to a WHL game of their choice.

Moonlight Magic on Friday, Winter Festival on Sunday Celebrate Christmas in Esterhazy this weekend

LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER This is the weekend folks in Esterhazy look forward to as their kick-off to the holiday season. Moonlight Magic happens on Friday, Dec. 6 from noon until 9 pm, then the continues on Sunday from 9 am to 4 pm with a day full of activities for Winterfest.

"It's always a lot of fun, as long as the weather is nice," said Crystal Sabo, Planning & Economic Development Di-rector with the Town of Esterhazy. "Last year, the weather was beautiful; the year before, it was freezing. It was like -30°C—it was so cold! But, we had a really good turnout last year, so that was awesome."

No matter if the temperature is mild or wild, Sabo not-ed that community spirit trumps whatever the thermometer is trying to do outside.

"Every year, I feel like everybody kind of waits for this to support local," she said, adding that the current Canada Post labour dispute might also have an effect on purchas-ing habits this year. "I'm really hoping that more people will stay in town to do some Christmas shopping."

Moonlight Magic

There will be plenty of opportunity to shop local as local participating businesses will be open until 9 pm. on Dec. 6, featuring special sales for the event. Sabo ex-plained that some stores have even had hourly sales in the past as a way to entice shoppers Shoppers will also have pating stores for a chance to win Esterhazy Bucks. "The first prize is $200, in Esterhazy Bucks," ex-plained Sabo. "Second prize is $150 and third prize is $100 so everybody who spends any money on that Friday in town at the partic-inating stores gets to enter ipating stores gets to enter in, so that's always a good way to it keep local as well."

The Esterhazy Bucks pro-gram has been popular in town, something Sabo is enthused by. "There's lots of people who are on the Esterhazy Bucks program, which is re-ally nice," she said. "Lots of different businesses."

At Anytime Fitness, an indoor vendor market will be running from 4 to 9 pm, offering up some unique gift ideas. Running roughly the same time—from 4 to 7 pm—there's beef on a bun plus two sides for $15 in the Legion Basement. From 6 to 8 pm, Crossfit K20 will have an indoor kid's obstacle course to help run off all that after-supper energy!

At 7 pm, the annual Light the Night takes place over at the Historical Park with Mayor Randy Bot lighting the Christmas tree.

"The town will serve hot chocolate and popcorn for free, we give out glow sticks and we have local carollers, Sabo said.

Plus, to keep attendees warm and set a festive mood, members of the Esterhazy Fire Department will once again be on hand to light a couple of bonfires.

Winter Festival

Sunday starts with a U9 hockey tournament at the Dana Antal Arena with the first game at 9 am. Other facilities in town will be busy as well, as Sabo explained. "At the hall, we have indoor bouncers," she said. "We're going to do some cookie decorating, we're going to do some crafts, and some games." The indoor kids activities run from 11 am to 3 pm at the

S.N. Boreen Centre, plus pictures with Santa runs from noon until 2 pm.

At the Esterhazy Curling Club, a turkey/ham throw happens from 11 am to 3 pm, something of a local tradi-tion and a great way to raise money for a cause.

"It's been a great fundraiser for the club, so they love

"We've done Elf for the last three years, so we thought we'd switch it up a bit," said Sabo. Both the Moonlight Magic and the Winter Festival are the result of a collaboration between the Town of Esterha-

The Hide Out opens its doors Friday

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI LOCAL JOURNALISM

INITIATIVE REPORTER It's an idea that Shellie Silverthorn has had on her mind for the past her mind for the past four years: creating a safe gathering place for youth. Something that encom-passes fun, promoting positive mental health and safety, plus fostering a sense of community. A space where people feel comfortable and safe be-ing themselves, express-ing themselves, and most importantly enjoying each other's company. That place—and that dream—are coming to fruition as The Hide Out officially opens its doors on Friday, Dec. 6 at 11 am. on Friday, Dec. 6 at 11 am. Coincidentally, that's also just in time for the annual CP Holiday Train's arrival, which is slated for noon, right outside The Hide Out's space at 1011 Front Street in the old McNaughton Building in Moosomin. "It worked out absolutely perfect that it happened to be on that day," Silverthorn said, explaining that not only is her husband employed by the railroad company, but it was the reason their family moved to Moosomin. "To me, it was meant to be!"

Not only will she have a perfect view of the festivities from The Hide Out's window, but Silverthorn added that hot chocolate will be on for those who'd like to stop in and say 'hel-lo' surrounding the train's arrival.

Currently, Silverthorn has secured a one-year lease for The Hide Out, which will be open Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday 11 am to 9 pm, then again on Friday and Saturday from 11 am to 10 pm, closed Wednesday and Thursday. Monday hours also in-clude holiday Mondays—a time when youth are often out of school. And school breaks? You bet they'll be open! That's exactly the

will be busiest. In terms of staffing, Sil-verthorn will be joined by her two daughters part-time for now, but may add more staff in the future. "In the summertime, depending on how busy we are, then we'll look into another adult," Silverthorn said, adding that a requirement for all staff is to posess valid certification associated with working in centres involving youth, including First Aid/CPR and a vulnerable sector clearance.

Arcade games and other cool stuff One big draw to The Hide Out will be the token-run games Silverthorn will have set up. Over the past four years, she's been working with Fun and Games HQ in Brandon on the idea of a teen hangout. With that business upgrad-ing their machines and needing to find a new home for their old machines, Silverthorn had first pick of which games she'd like to "One of the rooms will have five, possibly six to-ken-run games, depending on how many we can fit in there," she said, adding that so rub monu, other as that as with many other ar-cades, players are reward-ed with tickets that can be traded for prizes.

SCC Gift Card fundraiser sells $138,000 in gift cards

BY RYAN KIEDROWSK

LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER The annual MacLeod Elementary School Community Council's Shop Local Gift Card Fundraiser continues to see local success. This year, $138,000 worth of gift cards were sold, an increase of $8,000 from 2023, with around $8,500 coming back to the SCC. This is the fourth year for the fundraiser

"More people are aware of it now, and with the added extra businesses, it helps," said Shannon Beckett, SCC chair when asked what she attributes to the continued success of the fundraising initiative. This year four more businesses signed up to be part of the program for a total of 24 participating businesses. Stu-dents from MacLeod were tasked with selling the gift cards from Sept. 26 to Oct. 25, with incentives to participate. "There was some gift cards to the top sellers, and every kid that sold even one card would get a prize," Beckett explained

This year, the SCC will put funds toward playground equipment, but next year's proceeds will be more wide-

"I think next year we're just going to do them for the SCC initiatives, which in turn will donate some to the play-ground, but then we can use some to buy books for the kids or help pay for swimming costs," Beckett said. Given the timely nature of the campaign, some businesses around Moosomin have used their purchased gift cards as part of Christmas bonuses for employees, further bolstering the local economy.

Esterhazy Town Council Esterhazy moves council meetings to Thursday nights

The teen space will have a couple popular gaming systems, a pool table, foosball table, air hockey, and a ping pong table—all available for a $5 per hour fee to access the space. low patrons to purchase four hours and receive the fifth hour free.

Rage Room will help kids de-stress Dealing with stress, processing anxiety, and navigating negative emotions are not easy for anyone. Having a number of tools to assist with the mental health com-ponent in life is key, and Silverthorn feels having a Rage Room is one such answer.

"It's like carrying pebbles in a backpack—you load ev-erything in, you don't think it's very big or very heavy, but all of a sudden, when all these tiny pebbles all add but all of a sudden, when all these tiny pebbles all add up, it just crushes you and just drags you down," she ex-plained. "It's by emptying out one tiny thing at a time, it releases, and it can make you think so much clearer and positively. And I think that's what we need to start doing is allowing ourselves to let go of some of the things that are bothering us." The Rage Room is designed as a safe place to let go of stress through smashing items placed in the room. Personal protective equipment such as safety goggles, gloves, and safety suits are utilized to ensure participants are not injured by flying debris. "The Rage Room for myself was a must," Silverthorn said, adding she's had multiple people in their 20's reach out to inquire when it will be open. "Having that release to go somewhere where no one's going to get hurt, no one's going to get judged, just to release that built up stress—especially around the Christmas time. There's a lot of harshness going on right now in the world. It's very important that we have that because when we as adults and our or our own mental health and deal with it in a positive way, then it encourages our teens to do it as well, and our teens need to feel include." One method in particular that Silverthorn has experience facilitating involves writing messages on plates. As a way to deal with the particular issue, all anxieties and negative feelings associated with the situation are written on the plate, which is then smashed. Through the action of breaking the object, all the negative words on the object are also destroyed, providing a powerful cathartic release. Incidentally, Silverthorn is in search of donations of items such as old TVs, computers, and coffee machines that could be utilized in the Rage Room. They don't need to be in working order, just able to crumble under pressure

Coffee and Kids will run every Monday, Tuesday, and

Council discusses economic development agreement with RM, CBA

BY KARA KINN

Moosomin town council met on Wednesday for the first time after the election, with new councillors Heather Tru-man, Victor Santos Cardoza, Devin Nosterud, and Andie Hodgson sitting down with returning councillors Garry Towler and Kyla Fingas, and former councillor and newly-elected Mayor Murray Gray. One of the items on the agenda was the agreement b tween the town, RM of Moosomin and Community Builders Alliance to share the cost of an economic development officer and a lobbyist for the town. The three-year agree ment is up at the end of 2024, with the town's portion of the costs coming to around $45,000 a year.

While most of the new council agreed with supporting the agreement in principal, it was decided to table any motion on a new agreement until the next meeting with Mayor Murray Gray saying he first wanted to talk with the RM and CBA about some details of the agreement

Citizens on Patrol group discussed The town discussed an email from Napoleon Mactal about starting a citizens on patrol group in Moosomin. Mactal said he was writing to the town to ask for their recognition and support.

"It is a voluntary association that will be composed of citizens in our area that are interested in being another pair of eyes and ears to assist in reporting unusual or sus-picious activities," wrote Mactal. "The main activity of the group is to do patrols using our own vehicles or on foot and to report to the police."

Mactal said he had contacted the local RCMP detachment but was still waiting for their support. He said he was also trying to get ahold of the Whitewood Citizens on Patrol to help the Moosomin group get started. Mayor Murray Gray said he wanted to get the Moosomin RCMP's take on the group before any decisions were made and the item was tabled.

Kids these days Dear Editor

Dear Editor: Last week was a busy one for students in Moosomin and area. Monday started off with a Student Leadership Workshop that was attended by six McNaughton High School SRC students who went to gain insights to make their school a more areaging place their school a more engaging place. All week long, in conjunction with Tim Hortons, more than 20 different McNaughton students participated in the Holiday Smile Cookie Campaign by decorating or delivering Smile Cookies to raise funds for improvements to the school.

When the storm rolled in on Wednesday, I saw students out shoveling driveways and helping pull out others who were caught up in the snow. MacLeod students routinely volunteer to take turns helping in the Kindergarten and Grade 1 lunchrooms to support those younger students who may need it. Not to mention, all the youth coaches who work with school sports teams, minor sports organizations and who do private tutoring throughout the week.

The weekend was capped off with four amazing performances of CVP's Footloose where students from many area communities, including Elkhorn, Rocanville, Wa-pella, Wawota and Moosomin came together to not only perform, but also videotape, run spotlights, move chairs, organize desserts and seat guests. All of this in just one week! It is easy to berate the young people of our communities who make boor decisions or who display negative behav-iors, but when the youth in our area do positive things, we need to recognize those too! And although working with teenagers every day can be challenging (believe me, I know!), our students also have the potential to do many great things!

Thank you to all the student volunteers who stepped up, not only this week, but all year long, to help when the opportunity presented itself! Your community notices and we appreciate all that you do! I would also like to say thank you to everyone in our area communities who are already out there volunteering and setting such an amazing example for our youth. It is important to recognize that students model what they see! Parents and adults in the community who volunteer their time demonstrate for students, not only the impor tance of giving back, but all the benefits of being involved in their neighborhood!

In a time when giving back to the community in finan-cial ways may be difficult, giving of your efforts, time, skills and talents is still needed and greatly appreciated.

Moosomin second in Sask for Holiday Smile Cookie sales Smile Cookie sales in Moosomin raise over $11,000 for McNaughton High School

by Ryan Kiedrowski LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

After all the numbers were tallied late last week, the Moosomin Tim Horton's learned that they had come in sec-ond out of all locations in Saskatchewan for Holiday Smile Cookie sales, with the Moosomin location raising $11,443.

"We had a great week and sold over $11,000 worth of cookies," said Greg Crisanti, owner of the Moosomin Tim Horton's, who added that Moosomin was 15th across Can-ada in terms of sales. "Mother Nature wasn't on our side for this one, but that's just how it is," Crisanti said. "Of course, we're still very happy and proud of what our team commended We had a greg over the hortone in them and accomplished. We had some great volunteers in there, and it was just amazing, coming together for a great cause." The top location in the province was Humboldt, who raised $17,637.

All money raised from the week-long Holiday Smile

Cookie campaign is split between the Tim Horton's Foun-dation Camps and a local group—this time McNaughton High School, who will receive $5,721.50 for upgrades at the school school. "The energy is palpable, that's for sure," described Tegan Matichuk, chair of the Student Representative Council, of the vibe during the event. "You can feel it!" With a blizzard paralyzing the area for two days during Smile Cookie Week, Matichuk says pre-orders were espe-cially important this year.

cially important this year. "The pre-orders were very important," Matichuk con-firmed. "We were very thankful that lots of people stepped up to do the pre-orders and get school sponsored. A lot of the pre-orders were businesses buying for businesses." Crisanti also credited the people of Moosomin for once again supporting a wonderful local cause. "Our ovens get a total workout that week, and they're on constantly throughout the night," he said with a laugh. "A huge thank you to our team at the store, because without them, this wouldn't be possible. Our team loves doing it, and coming together during these campaigns and coming out even stronger."

However, once the week is over, Crisanti said it's not uncommon to notice team members' hands matching the same colours used in the icing on the Holiday Smile Cookies!

McNaughton students busy

Matichuk explained that the students from McNaughton High School were involved in many facets of the Holiday Smile Cookie campaign. Some were in charge of pick-up and delivery of orders, mostly in town, but some cookies travelled as far as Wapella.

In our opinion:

GST holiday a recipe for inflation

The Trudeau government has announced a temporary GST/HST holiday on select food purchases, effective from Dec. 14 to Feb. 15. Framed as a measure to help Canadians during the holidays and challenging winter months, the policy appears generous on the surface. However, a closer look reveals that its economic impact may be far less transformative than the political narrative suggests.

While the government touts the policy as meaningful relief, the actual savings for most Canadians are modest. Over two months, the average household could save just $4.51 on grocery taxes and $19.51 on dining out. For a few, particularly those splurging on luxury dining or alcohol, the sav-ings might add up. For the majority, however, this "GST vacation" feels

Ings might add up. For the majority, however, this "GST vacation" feels more like a token gesture than significant economic support. One group stands to gain significantly from this policy: restaurants. Ca-nadians already spend a record $187 per month dining out, and the tax break could encourage even more dining out during the holiday season. For instance, a $29 burger meal through Uber Eats might yield more sav-ings than cooking a homemade holiday dinner. Meanwhile, the cost of gro-cery staples like ground beef remains unchanged. This initiatended pairitization raises quotients about the policy's align

This unintended prioritization raises questions about the policy's align-ment with its intended purpose. Holidays are traditionally a time for home cooking and sharing meaningful meals with loved ones. By making dining out more financially attractive, the measure risks undermining the cultural out more financially attractive, the measure risks undermining the cultural and economic value of preparing meals at home. Taxing food, particularly necessities like groceries, has long been contro-versial. Many argue it's regressive and even immoral, as food is a basic necessity. While the temporary removal of GST on select grocery items is velcome, its short-term nature introduces confusion and risks unintended inflationary effects.

Retail food pricing operates on razor-thin margins, and grocers may ad-just prices upward to offset the perceived tax exemption. A permanent GST exemption, by contrast, would avoid this uncertainty, providing clarity and stability for both consumers and retailers. Instead, the two-month tax holiday risks creating temporary distortions in food pricing that could exacer-bate inflation in an already strained food economy.

Adding to the mix is the government's decision to issue $250 cash trans-fers to millions of Canadians. While these payments may offer short-term relief, they also inject additional demand into an already overheated economy. Without addressing structural issues in food supply chains, these pay-ments risk driving up prices further, worsening affordability for all Canadians

The combination of these measures—a temporary tax holiday and direct cash transfers—reflects a pattern of short-term solutions that fail to address the root causes of food inflation.

Another challenge is the lack of clarity surrounding the tax holiday. In most provinces, there is little transparency about which grocery items are taxed. Quebec is the exception, requiring signage to indicate taxed items. Without clear guidelines, Canadians may struggle to understand which items qualify for the exemption and how much they're actually saving. The remoting the policy and now interfuely to actuary saving. The temporary nature of the policy only adds to the confusion. Prime Minister Trudeau's GST holiday casts him as Canada's Santa Claus, delivering a modest gift to Canadians just in time for the holidays. While the measure may be appreciated by some, its poorly targeted and short-term nature raises serious concerns. By incentivizing dining out over short-term nature raises serious concerns. By incentivizing dining out over home cooking, the policy risks undermining family traditions and worsen-ing long-term affordability challenges. Though well-intentioned, the gesture falls short of addressing Canada's deeper issues with food affordability and inflation. What Canadians truly need is comprehensive, structural change—such as a permanent GST ex-emption on all grocery items. This would provide clarity, stability, and meaningful financial relief without the unintended consequences of short-torm force. term fixes

In the end, Canadians deserve more than a holiday season band-aid, Addressing food inflation and affordability requires thoughtful, long-term policies—not a fleeting tax holiday or cash payments that risk fueling higher prices.

Trudeau may play the role of Santa Claus this season, but lasting solu-tions require leadership that looks beyond the immediate political calendar. A GST exemption on all grocery items would have been a far better gift for Canadians-a permanent measure to support families and stabilize the food economy.

Until then, Canadians are left with a confusing, short-lived policy that does little to ease the burden of rising food costs.

Shop local this Christmas and support the businesses that support your community

This week's issue of the World-Spectator includes our Christmas Gift Guide in addition to the regular newspaper. That's 56 pages of reading enjoyment. This year's Christmas Gift Guide is more important than ever as it highlights many of the local businesses that make our communities tick.

Thanks to all those businesses that are part of the Christmas Gift Guide, part of the $15,000 giveaway, or are otherwise promoting themselves and local shopping this Christmas.

We have some amazing stores in this area, all of which are run by hardworking retailers who support your community all year every year.

People in our area have the right attitude when it comes to shopping locally. People appreciate what the local businesses we appreciate what the local businesses we have in our area offer and support them whenever they can. I can't think of a fundraiser in this area that doesn't depend heavily on our small businesses for their support, year after year. Our local retailers, restaurants, and other small businesses are always there for you when it comes to donating silent auction items for fundraisers, donating prizes for raffles, sponsoring sports teams, donating to fundraising campaigns, and so much more!

Businesses are facing the challenges that come with a growing area, such as challeng-es finding enough staff, and when bringing in staff, finding places for them to stay or finding childcare.

Those businesses that have always supported everything from your kids' hockey teams to your non-profit group to the fund-raiser for your cousin when he had a medical emergency now need you. They need you to show your support this Christmas season. Please pay close at tention to where you spend your holiday shopping dollars, and spend them locally or much comparished as much as possible. In light of the recent Canada Post strike, the value of our local businesses becomes even more clear.

Those dollars you spend in one business support other local businesses, as the business owner you support buys goods and services locally.

Your local businesses are doing all they can to earn your business. They are extend-ing their hours during the Christmas shopping season and they are organizing draws and promotions to reward people for shopping locally. They are there for you, and are hoping that the customers they support all year through various donations and fundraisers will reciprocate.

Special shopping and Christmas events are starting in many communities this week, including Rocanville late night shopping on including Rocanville late night shopping on Dec. 4, Moonlight Madness in Moosomin this Thursday, December 5, the CP Holiday Train in Moosomin this Friday, December 6, Moonlight Magic in Esterhazy this Fri-day, December 6, Santa Day in Moosomin this Saturday, December 7, the Winter Fes-tival in Esterhazy this Sunday, December 8, Kipling's Food Drive and Santa Parade this Sunday, December 8, the Moosomin Age Friendly supper this Sunday Dec 8 the Friendly supper this Sunday, Dec. 8, the Moosomin Carol Festival this Sunday, Dec. 8, Redvers Winterfest on Saturday, Decem ber 14, and the Moosomin Kinettes' Santa Parade on Thursday, December 19.

On top of that, businesses across the area have come together for the $15,000 Christmas giveaway, which will reward one per-son for shopping locally with $15,000 to spend locally, and will reward dozens more with great prizes from local business. This is something we have organized for years at the World-Spectator and we couldn't do it without a very supportive business community. The Moosomin Chamber of Commerce doing a draw for Moosomin Bucks on Moonlight Madness and another draw from December 16-21. Some businesses are doing their own draws of various sizes as well. All of those specials and draws work together to promote our local area. So the businesses that always have your back are going out of their way to make it easy to shop locally this Christmas season, and to reward you for doing so.

Please... support the businesses that sup-port your community. We want our local businesses to be around for years to come! Shop local this Christmas season!

A survey was dis-tributed to McNaughton students on Nov. 15 asking that question, with the deadline for submissions being Dec. 1. When asked if, given the opportunity, the school might consider participating in the fundraiser again now that they're more aware of all the work involved, Matichuk was quick to answer with "I would be very happy if we became the recipients again!" "It was something that we enjoyed being involved in, and we could see that it definitely benefited both our kids to do that volunteer component, and the funds raised will benefit our school," she said. "So absolutely, we would say ves. if we became the recipients again. But I know

Moosomin is such an amazing area that we live in that there are other organizations that would benefit from it, too. We would love to be a part of it again, but we defi-nitely understand that this generosity gets spread to our community.

The next fundraiser is not too far away as the spring

"Before we know it, we're going to be here in May, and we'll be doing it all again," Crisanti said. "We're getting excited for that, and we're going to be inquiring, then searching out for our next local recipient and charity. So we're excited to see who that will be."

Speech from the Throne

Speech from the Throne The first session of the new Saskatchewan Legislative Assembly began with a Speech from the Throne that promised a new beginning. Many Saskatchewan people voted to re-elect our government to keep our economy strong and our future bright, while many others voted for change. Our government will deliver both. Our government will keep the economy strong and work to achieve the targets set in the Saskatchewan Plan for Growth. A strong and growing economy allows our government to deliver on all the commitments made dur-ing the recent election campaign, including making life more affordable for Saskatchewan people.

We will introduce the largest personal income tax reduction since 2008 by raising the personal exemption, spousal ex-emption and the seniors supplement by $500 per year in each of the next four years, in addition to fully indexing income tax brackets.

The Saskatchewan Low-Income Tax Credit will be inreased by 20 per cent over the next four years. We will introduce legislation to extend the carbon tax exemption on natural gas home heating through 2025, saving Saskatchewan households about $480 next year. The Active Families Benefit and income threshold to qualify for it will both be doubled.

The Home Renovation Tax Credit will allow homeown-ers to claim up to $4,000 in home renovation expenses every year. The Saskatchewan First-Time Homebuyers Credit will be increased by 50 per cent.

Seniors will be able to claim an additional $1,000 every year, and seniors who reside in a personal care home will see the Personal Care Home Benefit increased by $1,000 per month.

The annual amount that can be earned through employment without having Saskatchewan Assured Income for Disabilities benefits reduced will increase by $1,000.

Bill 1 of our new Legislature will be The Saskatchewan Affordability Act – legislature will be the Saskatchewan campaign commitments to reduce taxes and make life more affordable for everyone in Saskatchewan. Our government looks forward to getting to work on these and other initiatives highlighted in the Throne Speech.

Holiday Train This Friday, December 6, I will be part of the CPKC Holiday Train cheque presentations to food banks in Moosomin, Broadview, and Indian Head. I plan to be at the event in Moosomin at noon, and then ride the train to Broadview and Indian Head. I look forward to seeing my riding by train, and hope to see many of you at the three events

Oldest Wapella Blackhawk alumni recalls netminding in the '40s

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI

LOCAL JOURNALISM INITATIVE REPORTER Don Purdy is likely the oldest living alumni of the Wapella Blackhawks. He turned 100 years old on Sept. 16, and at age 20, was one heck of a goaltender begin-ning in the 1944 season. Hockey looked a lot different back in the 1940's. Goal-ia macke wore nearly two decades away from ovictance ning in the 1944 season. Hockey looked a lot different back in the 1940's. Goal-ie masks were nearly two decades away from existence when famous Montreal Canadiens netminder Jacques Plante first donned one on Nov. 1, 1959. And shin guards? Well, those could be improvised with a couple Eaton's catalogues held up with canning rings, if one's legs were spindly enough. This was the hockey world Don Purdy found himself in where the pucks weren't any slower than they are now, and some of those Wa-pella powerhouse hockey names still live on. Doug Purdy explained his father was unable to en-list when other young men his age were heading off to serve in the Second World War, due to a hunting mis-hap as a young teenager. "Unfortunately, when my Dad was just 14 years old, he was going to go shoot some gophers, which were a real plague around gardens," Purdy explained. With .22 caliber rifle in hand, young Don mounted his bicycle when the gun slipped off. "Unbeknownst to him, it discharged the shell into his shoulder," Doug explained. Due to the injury bleeding profusely, the immediate assessment was to amputate the arm, but the young man eventually ended up in the operating room instead. Doctors were able to save the arm and Don retained full function of the limb, but he wasn't able to serve his country overseas when the time came in later years. "The shrapnel that was left in his body made my

Moosomin Senior Rangers Sin Bin Promotion

The Senior Rangers are excited to give back to the com-munity. With that we are thrilled to proceed with our first munity. With that we are thrilled to proceed with our first ever "Sin Bin" Promotion. This is our twist on Jail and Bail where you will have the opportunity to put both friends and foe into the Sin Bin (located in arena lobby) and they will have to fundraise for the new daycare...or spend the rest of their lives in the penalty box! We will be running this promotion at our December 20 game, shootout and cabaret.

Here is how it works. You pay a given amount to put someone in jail (minimum is $50). Let's say Kara pays $50 to put MLA Weedmark in jail. Kevin must then phone around and raise a minimum of twice that amount to get back out.

back out. You also have the opportunity to send someone to the Sin Bin in advance of the game. You phone in your per-son to send to the Sin Bin with your amount. The Rangers will then get that individual a complementary ticket to the game and then when they walk in...BAM...straight to the sin bin! To pre-penalize someone, you can phone the Rec Office at 435-3622 or the Economic Development Office at 435-2988.

Moosomin Sr Rangers Hall of Fame Weekend

Hall of Fame Weekend The Rangers are so excited about the December 20 Hall of Fame weekend. This triples as our Alumni Weekend/ Christmas Cabaret! At age 100, Don Purdey has fond memories of playing with Wapella Blackhawks

Instead, Purdy took to the ice, playing goal for the Wa-pella Blackhawks in a veritable golden age of rural hock-ey. Perhaps the injury of his youth actually saved his life, even if it meant temporary disappointment.

Small guy in net

Don Purdy wasn't an imposing figure between the posts, standing at 5'9" and weighing 119 lbs, so he had to rely on his quick wits and even faster reflexes. "He tells me the story about how his mom used to double knit the mitts for being the goalie, and he was pretty proud of himself, because he would have quick reflexes at that smaller size," Doug said. "And he did it out of sur-vival. They didn't have the blockers back then like they do today, and he just had to be good enough to catch that puck in the air. He was successful, and if there was a scrum, you've got your job—keep it out of the net." There were still a lot of big guys strapping on the skates in those days, but one saving grace was that Purdy ran with—not against—the famous Holloway boys, a name that still remains synonymous with highly-skilled hockey players from Wapella. There were no goalie masks back in Don Purdy's day, but Doug remembers his Dad tell of a harrowing moment in net wearing something else on his head.

"So he's playing with a baseball cap on, and sure enough, if there wasn't a scrum," Doug recalls. "A big guy gets knocked over and the skate splits the brim of his baseball cap!"

The realization quickly set in that had that blade been a few inches in a different direction, the impact would have caused serious damage to the young goaltender, perhaps even cutting his hockey career short.

"He says, you know, just a few inches more, and a raw blade could have just opened up my head or my throat, and I could have been a goner right there," Doug recounts.

Some other fond memories harken back to the innocent days of using a frozen-over slough (imagining it were Maple Leaf Gardens) and a never-ending supply of road apple pucks courtesy of numerous workhorses

"A lot of these boys, the story goes, is that the got good just using sticks on the ponds and using horse turds as their first hockey pucks," Doug said. "The farm boys would beat the city kids because they had more hockey pucks to deal with!"

Don Purdy would end up playing five seasons with the Blackhawks, expertly minding the hometeam's net until the age of 25. From there, Don embarked on a full life of work, marriage, a family, and retirement. But remembering those hours spent on the ice as a young man will al-ways remain clear.

Bix Six Hockey League Strong start for Rangers

Reigning Big 6 champs nab four wins though November

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER

INTLATURE REPORTER It's been a powerhouse start for the Moosomin Rangers this season, wasting no time to establish a flaw-less 4-0 record through November. The first trio of match-ups were real lamplighters kicking off with a pair of at-home Friday night contests with the Midale Mustangs On Nov 1 the of at-home Friday night contests with the Midale Mustangs. On Nov. 1, the Rangers played a high-scoring home opener, claiming a 7-3 victory, and the following week, they'd tack on a cou-ple more points to make it a 9-3 win over the Mustangs. On the following night, the Rangers travelled to Carn-duff, taking on the Red Devils and left the Carnduff Centennial Arena with a 10-1 win. 10-1 win.

After a brief siesta, the Rangers were on the road again, this time to Redvers on Nov. 23 for a first meet-ing with the Rockets. This would prove to be the challenge Moosomin was looking for. After a scoreless first period, Bud Holloway tickled the twine, courtesy Drayson Skulmoski and Carter Sawchuk nearly 11 minutes into the second period. Redvers would answer a couple minutes later with a goal from Corey Millette (from Drew Hoff, and Travis Poirier) and the middle frame would conclude with the one-all tie.

Second period action saw Redvers take the lead early with a Kenton Miller goal, but Rangers' Rykr Cole (from Skulmoski) and Dustin Fisher (Holloway and Sawchuk) would make it a 3-2 game after four and a half minutes. The Rockets' Oliver Poirier would tie things up again with a solo goal, then Holloway (from Sawchuk) would take advantage of the power play situation for a 4-3 lead. But, with just 30 second left in regulation time, Redvers' Miller would come back for his second goal of the game (from Koltyn Miller and Jordon Miller), forc-ing overtime.

Alas, all the Rangers needed was 49 extra seconds before Holloway could make his hat trick (Mitch Rutledge picking up the assist) to bring Mooso-min this squeaker of a W.

The Rangers' next home game is Friday, Dec. 6 when the KW Oil Kings come to town, then it's a string of games on the road (Dec. 7, Oxbow Huskies; Dec. 14, Wawota Flyers; Dec. 15, KW Oil Kings) before one last home game before Christmas on Dec. 20. The Oxbow Huskies come to town that night, and it will also wrap the that night, and it will also wrap the Rangers' games til January. Looking at the Big 6 League, Moo-somin is in that number one slot, shar-ing a accumulated eight points with the second-seed 4-2 Carnduff Red Devils

Coming in third and fourth in league standings with six points apiece are the 3-1 Carlyle Cougars and 2-0-2 Redver Rockets. Rounding out the bottom four are the 2-3-1 Midale Mustangs with five points, the 2-1 Oxbow Huskies with four points, the 0-3-1 KW Oil Kings with one point, and the 0-3 Wawota Flvers.

Canadian Western Agribition brand

Burning of the Brand launches 53rd Agribition

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI

LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER The 53rd Canadian Western Agribition was held in Regina last week, drawing in thousands of visitors and exhibitors from around the world. CWA president Michael Latimer told reporters how in 2023, more than 1,000 international visitors from 60 countries came to Agribition. This year also saw a large number of people from other countries come to the show, highlighted by delegations from Argentina and Kazakhsťan.

"It's a great place for companies to do business," Latimer said of Agribition. "So we've got a lot of bigger companies, small companies, and local businesses that use Agribition as the platform to get people together. We want to facilitate that."

Another audience the CWA wants to continue attracting is the younger generation, as more than 5,000 students were an ticipated to pass through the gates during the week.

the week. "Traditionally, we've actually had more, but bussing has become really expensive to get the kids here, so in the future, we'll be looking for some support," explained Latimer. "We got to get more kids here, and we think that's actually quite impor-tant because they're here to learn about agriculture. It's part of the curriculum. It's built into that and this is a great place to built into that, and this is a great place to do it, because not every kid's able to get out to a farm anymore

It's also a show that newly named pro-vincial Agriculture Minister and Cannington MLA Daryl Harrison has rarely missed

"I'm very proud to be here as the Sas-katchewan Minister of Agriculture," he replied when asked by the World-Spectator how it felt to attend Agribition in his new official capacity. "I'm just delighted. I've missed very few shows over the years, and it's definitely written in on the calendar each and every year.

dar each and every year." Before the Burning of the Brand, which is the official opening of Agribition each year, Harrison paid tribute to the agricul-ture producers across the province, high-lighting their importance in an ever ex-panding global market.

The ranchers and farmers at this show are leaders in the industry—not just pro-vincial leaders, but global leaders," he said. "You are absolutely vital to the story we tell about Saskatchewan, but it's really you, the story here in ag. It's a story of hard work and commitment. It's a story of best practices that set the bar very high in terms of quality and stewardship. It's a in terms of quality and stewardsnip. It's a story of innovation that leads to the good ideas which help transform and improve this industry. That's because good ideas do not stop at any border. Good ideas drive change and enable progress everywhere

Looking toward the future, Harrison beamed with optimism for the agricul-ture industry and how agribusiness in the

ture industry and how agribusiness in the province continues to soar. "Now, the world you've helped to feed for generations is looking to you more and more to keep shaping the future of this in-dustry," he said. "The government of Sas-katchewan is proud to have been a part-ner of Agribition since its first show more than 50 measures area. After all agrialture has than 50 years ago. After all, agriculture has always been a keystone for the province, and we don't see that changing. Continued on page 25
