Jerney Desjarlais modeling overseas at Paris Indigenous Fashion Week

BY ASHLEY BOCEK

Jerney Desjarlais of Rocanville selected to be a part of Indigenous Fashion Week in Paris coming up at the end of September. Desjarlais is a Métis model and is excited for the opportunity to model in Paris.

Desjarlais says she lived in Rocanville until she was 12 years old before moving to B.C.

"I am a 15-year-old model, and I am currently living in British Columbia in the lower mainland, in Coquitlam," she says.

"I was born and raised in Saskatchewan. I lived in Rocanville for the first 12 years of my life. The first time I ever modelled was when I was eight months old. My mom signed me up for a model shoot. Then, we moved to B.C. and I have always been interested in fashion so I thought, 'Oh yea, I want to get into modelling,' and my mom was 100 per cent on board with that."

"She started school at Blanche Macdonald in Vancouver and students there will model for their class and so I thought I could be the models for them, so that is when I really started."

She says there are some challenges that come with modelling.

"The quick changes that happen, like last minute changes in schedules. That is probably one of the most stressful things I have gone through."

Desjarlais models at the Blanche Macdonald School of arts, fashion, and make-up in Vancouver.

"From my second runway I was asked to be a part of an agency," she said. "Even though I don't think I have done a lot of modelling, when I add all of it up I have definitely done a lot."

"I modelled in Kamloops for a fashion show for the elders, and I have modelled for IKR (International Kids Runway) which was my first-ever runway. The main thing that I do is model for students at Blanche Macdonald."

She says she is beyond excited to go to Paris for Indigenous Fashion Week.

"Kim Coltman, the founder of Indigenous Fashion Week, looked at the list of applications and thought which ones would work. I was ecstatic when I found out I was chosen. I was so excited and to be honest it was a huge shock. I have come very far in modelling."

Desjarlais will be going to Paris with her mom and younger sister.

"Indigenous Fashion Week in Paris is for about a week. We leave on September 22. I am very excited for the trip and the event," she says. "I hope it opens more doors in the world of fashion and I believe that it will. I am most excited to tour Paris and see the sites and the actual experience of the fashion show. My mom and my younger sister are coming with me too. My mom and I have a really good relationship, so I am excited she is coming."

Desjarlais is enjoying modelling for right now, but sees her future working in a different profession.

"I don't see myself going that far in modelling if I am being honest. When people ask me, 'Do you plan on doing modelling as your actual job?' I always say, 'No.' I do plan on taking a break from modelling after my two-year contract is up, which just started. I would like to focus more on school after my contract and I see myself going into law in the future instead of modelling."

Jerney's mother Ruth will be responsible for makeup at the event in Paris, and her sister Echo will be a backstage Production Assistant and dresser for the show.

"I'm responsible for all eight models, and then sometimes if the staff don't have time to do it themselves, then I'm lucky enough to do their makeup too," says Ruth. "It's very, very cool and it's kind of weird because I wanted to be in Indigenous fashion right off the bat but it didn't happen. Then Jerney became involved and she got me involved. So it's really, really strange how that happened. I guess that's the way that it was supposed to be, through her."

All eight models at the show will be Canadian. The show takes place at the Canadian Ambassadors Residence in Paris on September 27.

"It's a lot of work and a lot of people underestimate what goes into fashion shows," says Ruth. "It can be quite overwhelming actually, especially runway because there are a lot of quick changes between the shows and there's a lot of pressure. So there's probably about four days of preparing and rehearsal because they have to practice as a team."

According to Kim Coltman, the Co-Founder of Fashion Speaks International, "Indigenous fashion is the fastest growing segment of the fashion industry. It is now providing equitable opportunities and access to Indigenous creators and youth."

Ruth says the growth of Indigenous representation in fashion is an important step for the industry to take.

"Indigenous fashion is important because it's Indigenous designers creating the designs to represent what Indigenous fashion looks like or should look like, and not what we've seen showcased in the past," she says.

Rocanville School's Annual Terry Fox Walk

Rocanville School held their annual Terry Fox Walk on Thursday. The school started off their tribute to Terry Fox with a video for students and trivia to test their knowledge of the Canadian icon. They wore badges that stated who they were walking for, whether it was a parent, grandparent or even a teacher. The Grade 10 class set up a track to start off the run with a nice jaunt up the side of the playground's hill.

The students worked up an appetite and afterwards were fed burgers that were cooked by the high school students.

"It's time to bring Indigenous designers, Indigenous models and anything Indigenous to the forefront. I think it's really, really important to show our youth that the sky is the limit and I think it's just important to put that culture front and forward. It's important and I think it's really cool that they do Paris Fashion Week as well as Paris Indigenous Fashion Week. One of the girls that Jerney met at the International Kids Runway—she and another Indigenous designer are actually taking part in Paris Fashion Week as well as Paris Indigenous Fashion Week. I think one of the coolest things is that they're bringing Paris Indigenous Fashion Week to the forefront and they're not taking it and separating it, there are also Indigenous models and designers in Paris Fashion Week. It's just that in Paris Indigenous Fashion Week, they're taking that and really focusing on it as a highlight. So I think that's really cool."

Ruth says she thinks interesting that Jerney's first model photo showed up in the World-Spectator when Jerney was just a baby.

"When she was eight months old we were asked if her picture could be used for photographer Kirsten Franson's marketing—she had little business cards. She asked if she could put Jerney's picture on her business card and advertise it in The World-Spectator, and so at the time you're flattered because you think that you must have a cute baby but you're not thinking about the future at all."

"When she started getting a little bit older, she did a little bit of modeling for Lindsay Weimer Photography. She did that for a little while at about six years old. Then when we moved to B.C. she started really taking it more seriously."

"I just think it's so cool that The World-Spectator is where she got started. If you go back to the 2009 Winter Fun Guide, on the front page was a little snowman face and then you open it and Jerney is on the top left and it's an ad for Franson's Photography when she's a little baby with these little angel wings. I think she was about eight months old then in 2009. So we thought it was really, really cool that this is where she is now."

Rocanville Town Council Town to help cover cost of internet at medical clinic

BY RYAN KIEDROWSKI
LOCAL JOURNALISM INITIATIVE REPORTER
At last week's regular meeting of Council on Sept. 18, Rocanville town council made the decision to cover the costs of internet services at the medical clinic in Rocanville.

"We've decided that, yes, we will install and help fund the internet to keep our doctors in town," said Administrator Tanya Strandlund. "It's an important service to this community, and we need to help support it."

To install the RFNOW fibre internet, there's an estimated cost of $800 and from there, exact numbers are not completely firmed up yet, however the commitment is strong.

"I don't know exactly how it's going to look right now in regards to how we help fund them, because their increased internet is a higher cost to the clinic," Strandlund explained. "So I'm not sure how it's going to look exactly yet regarding how we're going to help support that, but as of right now, yes, we are on board for it. The town and the RM own the building, and that's why we are going to be installing it."

With increasing use of cloud-based systems and storage, the faster internet provided through fibre is the preferred option.

Delegation on internet

Council met with a delegation made up of Ron Irvine from Access Communications, who updated those in attendance about internet options and overall upgrades.

"He said they did a tower upgrade here in town, and so their services are going to be better," Strandlund said. "They provide TV, internet, home phone and security."

GICs reinvested

There were a total of six GICs that matured and were reinvested. The total amount reinvested for one year non-redeemable at 4.1 per cent interest is $296,202.33. These ranged from unspecified surplus, fire department, REDO, drainage and building and machinery surplus investments.

Free dump day in October

"We are going to be doing a free dump day on Saturday, October 19," Strandlund said. "The community absolutely loves free dump days, so from 11 am until 3 pm Saturday, October 19."

The day will encourage people to do their fall cleanup work.

Wapella's Music in the Park was a hit

BY TAMMY STATZ

The afternoon of Sunday, August 25 was the day Wapella Community Development Society held their 'Music in the Park' with all proceeds going to the upkeep of the Wapella Centennial Park.

A barbecue of hamburgers and hot dogs began the day, with The Store in Wapella providing the burgers, and Bill and Sarah Dorma providing the hot dogs. They were deliciously prepared over charcoal heat by Joe Reid.

There was a Farmers and Flea market at which kids were given tattoos, animal balloons, and local entrepreneurs sold their wares. The Happy Go Lucky Club had tables of various local garden produce, etc. The Local Wapella Public library was also on site with button making, and other various games for everyone to enjoy.

The highlight of the afternoon was the music. Performers included Ainsley Freisen from Whitewood, Miranda and Jasmine Decorby from Rocanville, Katie Cuthill from Welwyn, Kolby Clunas from Russell, Manitoba, Raven Sage from Saskatoon, and the headliner Megan Kelly from Rocanville.

The 50/50 winner was Janice Crossman, who graciously returned her winnings in memory of one of the founding board members of the park, Norma Crossman.

The afternoon proved to be a huge success, and would not have been possible without the help of many volunteers, which we want to give a heartfelt thank you!

Wawota Legion holds open house for 'Legion Week'

BY ED JAMES

All over Canada last week, the Royal Canadian Legion hosted different events to celebrate "Legion Week." The various events across the country were to show the Legion's community work and perhaps find some new members.

A popular misconception is that in order to become a Legion member you have to be a military or law enforcement veteran, but that is not true. If you are a Canadian citizen and over 18, you can become an associate member and all the Legion benefits that go with it. Another option is that you could also apply to be a member of the Royal Canadian Legion Ladies Auxiliary—the always ready group that helps, supports and carries out Royal Canadian Legion programs and projects.

On September 16, the Wawota Branch Legion #113 that has about 30 members hosted a morning open house with free coffee and lots of homemade cookies. To add to the event, military collector and presenter Ed James of Elkhorn, put on a large display of Royal Canadian Air Force uniforms and kit from the WWII period. Legion Secretary/Treasurer Barb Dennis requested the display because 2024 is the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

There was a good turnout for the event and viewing, with lots of interest and questions about the display. Attendees also had a chance to look at the photos in the Legion Hall of the many local people who have served in Canada's past wars.

Barb Dennis said that she was pleased with the turnout and hoped that the open house made the public aware of the local Legion's work in their community.

Royal Montreal in golf world's spotlight

Canadian flags will be flapping all over Montreal this week as 24 of the world's best golfers descend on Royal Montreal Golf Club for the President's Cup.

Not only is our country represented by its hosting site, but the President's Cup captain is Canadian Mike Weir, who has good memories of this event when it was held at this same location back in 2007. In Sunday singles that year, Weir defeated Tiger Woods, eliciting nationwide euphoria, but Weir's International squad still lost the competition.

In fact, winning the competition has been almost impossible for the Internationals. In 14 biennial competitions, the U.S. has won 12 times, losing only once and tying once. An International victory in Montreal this week would be one of the biggest upsets — and stories — of the year on our soil.

Taking up three of the International team's 12-golfer roster spots are Canadians Taylor Pendrith, Corey Conners and Mackenzie Hughes. Conners is ranked 28th in the Official World Golf ranking while Pendrith is 34th. Two other Canadians — Adam Hadwin and Nick Taylor — are ahead of Hughes in the world rankings, but captain Weir selected Hughes instead. His short-game prowess can be a powerful tool in match play, and the International squad will need every bit of around-the-green magic to keep pace with the powerful Americans.

Prior to 1994, the only major international golf event was the esteemed Ryder Cup, a competition between the United States and Europe that had been held every two years since 1927. The explosion of golf around the world — Australia, Asia, South Africa, Canada, South America — created an opportunity for another similar event. Thus was born the President's Cup in 1994. U.S. presidents, current or former, generally serve as honorary chairs for the event when it is played in the U.S., and host country government leaders carry similar duties when the event is outside the U.S. In Canada in 2007, then Prime Minister Stephen Harper was honorary chair. This year, it will be

Bruce Penton

Justin Trudeau.

The International team is laden with talent. Besides the three Canadians, others on the squad are Japan's Hideki Matsuyama, Australia's Adam Scott, Min Woo Lee and Jason Day, South Koreans Sungjae Im, Byeong-Hun An, Si Woo Kim and Tom Kim, and South Africa's Christiaan Bezuidenhout.

The Americans will be overwhelming favourites, led by captain Jim Furyk and the world's No. 1 golfer, Scottie Scheffler. He'll be backed by two-time major championship winner in 2024, Xander Schauffele, Colin Morikawa, Wyndham Clark, Patrick Cantlay, Sahith Theegala, Keegan Bradley, Sam Burns, Tony Finau, Brian Harman, Max Homa and Russell Henley.

The crowds at Royal Montreal will be heavily pro-International and that fan support could make the difference down the stretch in a couple of close matches. Nothing will match Weir's thrill of winning the 2003 Masters at Augusta, but captaining the International team to only its second victory in 15 matches in his home country would come close.

Rows of hops ready for harvest.

Local STS Chapter visits JGL Shepherd Hops Farm

BY BARB SWALLOW

On Friday, September 6, fourteen members of the local Moosomin Chapter of the STS toured the JGL Shepherd hops farm operation near Moosomin.

The group had a tour in June of this year and decided that a harvest tour was a must. What an impressive operation! Very labor intensive but a labor of love for those involved. Those working the operation had a dream and their dream is now a reality. It's never too late to learn something new and that is exactly our goal as retired teachers.

The spring tour allowed us to see the hops at a young stage, learning about how they are trained by hand to climb the coconut ropes. As Terry Lynd told us, "The vines must be trained to curl around the vines in a clockwise rotation to follow the sun."

Guy Shepherd walked the group through the entire operation in June, discussing the planting, training, harvesting, and marketing of the hops that are then used to brew some of the best beer in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. We learned about the harvesting, drying, baling, pelleting, fertilizing, and packaging, as well as a whole mix of information that comes into the success of the operation.

The September tour allowed us to see the harvesting process firsthand. We watched as they cut down and captured the vines using truck and tractor. We then saw the harvester at work, separating the hops from the vine and sending them into the dryer via a conveyor belt.

From the field we went to Skout Brewing in Moosomin for our meeting and sampled the product firsthand! Delicious! Back in June, we also had an opportunity to tour the brewery and learn firsthand how the brewmaster works his magic. This was a wonderful opportunity for our group and we would highly recommend it to everyone.

Many thanks to JGL Shepherd Farms for hosting us at the farm and to Skout Brewing for providing an inviting location for a meeting in June and again in September.

Following our tour of the farm, the Moosomin Chapter of the STS met to discuss a variety of subjects—the majority of which are education-related. We plan activities for our group and at times for extended groups, as we did when we hosted the provincial curling event.

From the fees we pay annually to the STS, we received funding that allows us to run various events for our group and to make donations to worthwhile causes. This year we made motions to donate $1,000 each to three very important causes: Moosomin Health Care Foundation, Moosomin Airport, and STARS.

As retirees from the classroom we are still at work in our communities, doing a wide variety of volunteering. One upcoming grant will allow us to plan events in our communities to "celebrate older persons." We are also looking for participants who are interested in becoming "Forever in Motion" instructors. Anyone interested in this 20-hour training can contact Barb Swallow by emailing bswallow@sasktel.net. Participants do not need to be members of the STS.

Mike Schwean Arena Parking Lot

A multi-year struggle at the arena parking lot has come to a much, much appreciated end this summer! Parks and Rec thanks council for their understanding of how busy that parking lot is and as such identified it for 2024 paving. First, the town's public works crew did an amazing job of digging out the slop and replacing it with proper fill. Southwest Paving completed the first lift of asphalt on 80 per cent of the lot! It is an absolute game changer for patrons and staff at the MS Arena, Conexus Convention Centre and Nutrien Sportsplex!

Outdoor Pickle Ball Court Sponsorship Opportunities

With things progressing so well with the Pickleball Court project, we are now out and about looking for sponsors to complete our project. We have multiple opportunities including:

The Bullpen (rest area): $10,000
Naming rights of one court which includes signage: $10,000

For further information or to claim sponsorship please call Mike at 435-7578 or by email to msmn.rec.brd@sasktel.net

Outdoor Pickle Ball Court Donor Night!

Moosomin Parks and Recreation along with our local Pickleball Club will be hosting a post-harvest donor night at the Nutrien Sportsplex. This will be an opportunity to get an update on the new outdoor pickleball court project as well as to try the sport out if you have not had an opportunity. The event will be held Friday, October 18 at the Nutrien Sportsplex from 5 to 7 pm. There will be cocktails, supper and an information session for perspective donors from 7 to 9 pm. There will also be an opportunity to try out pickleball at no cost. If you would like information on the project prior to the donor night, by all means feel free to contact Mike at 435-7578.

Outdoor Pickle Ball Court Construction

Back when Covid hit us, Parks and Rec took advantage of the downtime to perform a Community Recreation Plan. Three of the recommendations from the CRP included:

- Building more outdoor court space
- Offering increased low/free cost informal programs
- Offering seniors more programming opportunities

To address these issues in part, a plan was put into place to build a Pickleball Court that could double for multiple opportunities. The facility had a solid plan in place but needed funding. It looked like a project that would come to fruition in 2025 to 2026.

Then along came Kingston Midstream...followed by a dozen amazing community donations and presto!

Construction on the Pickleball Court began a couple weeks back. The land had been all prepped. It has been paved and fencing and wind slates will go into place this fall. All is covered by grants and community donations.

We have some work to do financially to cover the remaining costs—acrylic, sealing, painting lines, nets, lighting, trees and a bull pen (sitting area). We will work hard on fundraising over the winter to have the funds in place and then look to have a grand opening around June 1 of 2025! There are multiple ways and means to donate as you can see in this recreation report!

Thanks to everyone who has helped out with this project. Parks and Rec think this will be heavily used and a fantastic addition to Lloyd Bradley Park. For further information or to claim sponsorship please call Mike at 435-7578 or by email to msmn.rec.brd@sasktel.net

Learn to Play Pickleball

During the evening of Friday, October 18, we will be all set up at the Conexus Convention Centre with our three pickleball courts/nets. People looking to take up the sport we will be welcomed free of charge to come down and get a fantastic introduction to the sport. There will be no cost to try it out. ## Elvis is heading in the building!

Arguably the top Elvis impersonator in Western Canada...Rory Allen...is returning to Moosomin for an encore show! Rory Allen, who does an excellent tribute to the King of Rock and Roll Elvis Presley, will be at the Moosomin Community Theatre on Sunday, October 20 at 2 pm. Tickets are only $20 and are available in Moosomin at The World-Spectator, Pharmasave, and in Rocanville at Mane-Tain Hair Shop and Gifts. Mary McGonigal will do another amazing job of hosting the show.

There will be a 50/50 draw as well as a door prize draw (donated by Stars AA). All proceeds from the event will go to Stars Air Ambulance. What better way to spend a Sunday afternoon!

Mary has put on two other shows where the money went to STARS. This spring, STARS called Mary and asked her about taking part in a fundraiser. STARS operates totally on donations. People have been asking Mary when she was going to bring Rory Allen back...so a show was planned.

There will be a drop off spot in front of the theatre which is handy for people who can not walk well. There will also be ticket takers/ushers on site.

When Rory was here in 2022, it was a packed house with every seat sold in advance of the show. As such, patrons are encouraged to buy their tickets early...enjoy an amazing show and support a wonderful cause!
